| THE FIREBALLS | EXOTIC GUITARS FROM THE CLOVIS VAULTS (The latest in Ace's series of limited edition collectors' items features Clovis, New Mexico's favourite sons. This is a limited pressing of 1500 copies. When "Wide World Hits by The String-A-Longs" was issued by Atco in 1968, buyers could hardly have been aware that they were actually purchasing an instrumental LP by The Fireballs The band were simply masquerading under the name of the String-A-Longs at Norman Petty's behest. This album is the centrepiece of this CD, plus the non-album track 'Popi' which was also issued under the String-A-Longs name. After much searching in the Clovis vaults we have been fortunate enough to discover an additional five titles - versions of the Doors' 'Light My Fire', the Supremes' 'Love Child', Johnny Nash's 'Hold Me Tight', Classic IV's 'Stormy' and Otis Redding's 'Dock Of The Bay- which were originally recorded for the project but not included on the album.' | BRIAN SETZER | SETZER GOES INSTRUMENTAL (With its forays into bluegrass and traditional jazz, Brian Setzer's new album Setzer Goes Instru-MENTAL has the guitar legend testing new waters and putting his signature Stray Cat stamp on a few instrumental favourites. Setzer didn't set out to create an all -instrumental affair but couldn't resist temptation when the music started heading in that direction. "I didn't start writing an instrumental record, per se," says Setzer. "I wrote 7 songs with lyrics, and then all of a sudden I just took a turn and started fooling around with 'Blue Moon of Kentucky,' except without any vocals. I started playing melody chords and thought, 'Wow, this is pretty cool!' So the direction turned about halfway through my writing. I had never done an instrumental record, but I thought, well, now's the time." Setzer wrote six originals and revitalizes five jazz-bluegrass classics - "Blue Moon of Kentucky," "Earl's Breakdown," "Cherokee," "Be-Bop-A-Lula," and "Lonesome Road.") | SURF DOG £14 |
